

Our content re-structuring includes:

- Instructor-led Training to Computer-based Training programs
- Web-based Training over Moodle and Collaborative Learning
- Assignment Designs and Test Objects
- Multimedia Content for Courseware Development
- Grade book Online and Interactive books
- Certification Courses
- Virtual classroom and pedagogy services

e-Learning is a training and development solution whose time has come, and the public sector is just now realizing the tremendous power and cost savings it provides.

The inception of PureDensity Ltd has led naturally to the creation of an online education resource for government agencies, academic institutions and corporate businesses.

With SMEs and effective instructional designers / learning analysts we have developed the optimal online training courses that suitable meet the clients’ requirements.

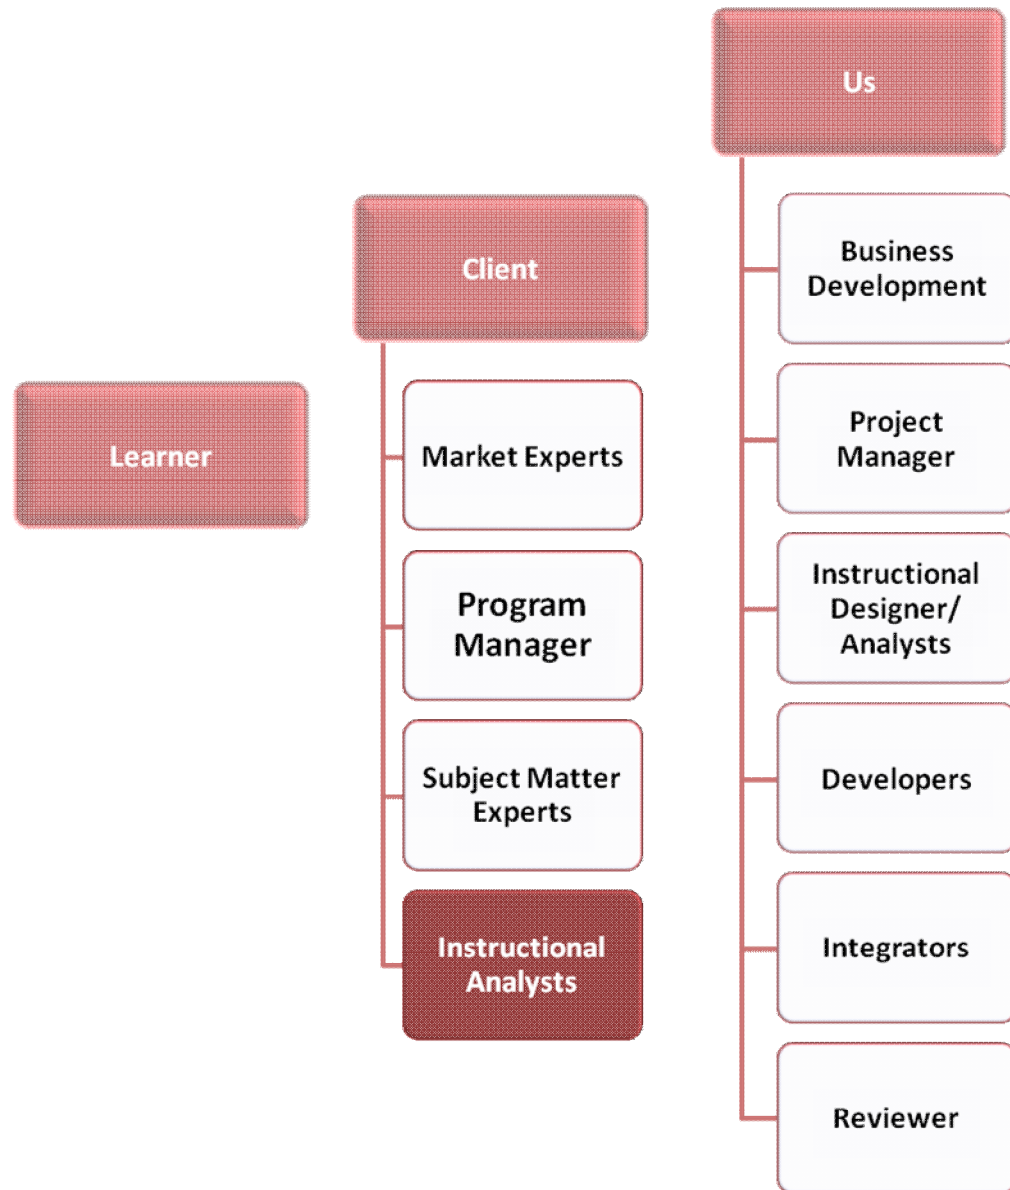

Through innovative technology, the vast majority of courses can now be taught in an interesting and dynamic way that is far easier for the user, and far more cost effective for the administration. Our LMS (Moodle) system manages the training and development process of both online as well as classroom courses, vastly improving efficiency as well as learning outcomes.

PRIMARY ADVANTAGE

- Greater ease and effectiveness for individuals taking training and continuum education solutions
- Increases efficiency in training and deployment of both web-based and classroom courses, as well as report and mentor based on their activities
- Greater compliance and quality control for training requirement
- Cost effective training and development budget.

We not only develop your content but also specialize in helping you to set and identify the key training goals and works with you to make success stories. We also help you to accurately gauge the user’s skill levels upon their course completion and capture user feedback for continuous improvement of the user-mentor experience.

academic institutions, corporate learning, and other training and development programs with effective mechanism to make collaboration between students and facilitators - a fun, enriching, and easy to deploy.

We believe in partnering rather than being into client-vendor model. Send your queries or write us to know more about our services and partnership model.

Contact Us:
contact@puredensity.com

